

Spring Intern, Occupational Health & Safety

Louisville Operations

Carbide Industries in Louisville operates the only submerged Electrical Arc Furnace for the manufacture of Calcium Carbide in North America, providing the chemical energy needed to drive industrial innovation in steelmaking, foundry operations, acetylene production and chemical intermediates.

We currently have an exciting opportunity for a Summer Intern to work with our Occupational Health & Safety Department.

This Position May Include, But Not Limited To

Assisting our EHS team with various project duties
Learn the particular hazards of our plant areas and assist in Safety & Housekeeping Audits
Perform trend studies on incident reports and assist in developing improvement goals
Create and update documentation such as training records, presentations, and reports
Evaluate data collection systems, make recommendations and updates

Minimum Requirements

The successful candidate for this position will possess the following:
Completing/completed sophomore year or greater
Minimum 3.0 GPA
Pursuing a degree in Occupational Safety
Available for at least 9 weeks

Work Environment:

Moving machinery, dust, heat, cold and noise. Occasional use of a respirator, work at heights, within confined spaces. Daily PPE consists of hardhat, safety glasses, safety shoes and hearing protection.

PPE provided, paid holidays (if applicable), $22/hour

Please send a resume to jobs@carbide.com with "Safety Internship" in the subject line.
EOE of Minorities/Females/Vets/Disability